A. ACCOMPLISHMENTS

[] for nineteen selected military personnel in

3. Overseas Planning

a. Clandestine Services Cold War Planning

As a member of the Clandestine Services Planning Board (Support Committee), OTR has continued its review of the appropriate country plans prepared for the Clandestine Services General Plan for FY 59 and FY 60. During the reporting period, OTR also reviewed the final drafts of the operational plans of the divisions and staffs of DD/P. These plans are studied in order to predict the impact on Headquarters training and to analyze the foreign field training requirements for which OTR has a technical support responsibility. Further, these plans indicate the mission and type of assets being developed for wartime use which has an impact on the total training effort.

b. Clandestine Services Hot War Planning

CIA/CS War Plans were reviewed by OTR with particular reference to the preparation for wartime training activities. Within his responsibility for technical support for foreign training, the DTR is continuing to transmit instructional materials and aids to training projects preparing foreign services or groups for wartime activities.

B. MAJOR PROBLEMS

1. As indicated in last year's report, a need existed for an alternate could be satisfied. If used for this purpose, this site will require certain modifications and additional construction.

2. OTR has no responsibility for foreign training bases other than those specified [] which is essentially ready for wartime use. However, as the rest of the overseas training matters now stand, OTR cannot go much further in preparing for an effective transition to a war-time situation until more detailed planning concerning requirements is forthcoming from the field.

3. Other outstanding problems in relation to wartime training are the lack of qualified personnel to translate pertinent lesson plans and other training documents in foreign languages and the probable shortage of competent instructors to handle the anticipated expansion of training requirements, especially during the time of most need in the initial six months of any future war.
